

Henry (Waveney Class) is in the local newspapers this weekend because of the wonderful work he is doing for the MIND charity. Well done, Henry. We are very proud of you!

Trail of uplifting chalk drawings created to mark World Mental Health Day

PUBLISHED: 13:52 09 October 2020 | UPDATED: 13:53 09 October 2020

Thomas Chapman

Chalk art will be hidden in shop windows across Harleston to mark World Mental Health Day. Picture: Simon Bobby

A family's quest to spread joy across Norfolk through art is continuing as their town gets ready to mark World Mental Health Day.

"I think the council was pleased to give permission because it gets people out and about in town and that may help the shops, too."

One of the Chalk Bomb Charity's best artists

The family, who go under the group name of the Chalk Bomb Charity, have organised the trail to coincide with World Mental Health Day.

"We wanted to do something a bit special for Mind as it's World Mental Health Day on Saturday and, with the cold weather now here, we really needed to come up with a trail where the rain wouldn't wash the chalk away," said Mr Bobby.